

Quantel “Tru Mog” Lindsey or True Man of God, is an artist on the rise and a minister of the Gospel. Hailing from the Appalachian foot hills just outside of Chattanooga TN, Tru Mog is a young man with an old soul. As a child we was in out of church before getting wrapped up in street life as a young teen. As a young adult he experienced the harsh realities that living that lifestyle brings, drugs, the violence, losing a close friend, and even sharing a jail cell with his father. He finally had enough and simply asked, “God if you will still have me, I here and ready.”

Tru Mog is more than a hip-hop artist, he is an ordained minister, “One day I’ll retire from rap, but I’ll never stop preaching.”

A fan of hip-hop and its broad spectrum of styles, Tru Mog sites Lacrae, A Tribe Called Quest, Andy Mineo, Talib Kweli, and Killer Mike among his influences. He considers hip-hop to be “truth” music, a unique expression that he sees as a musical word puzzle, which is based in lyricism and being true to your self. That sums up his style and intent as an artist, to bring truth and transparency to every lyric he writes and to use his music as a means of unabashedly expressing and articulating his faith.

Tru Mog is currently performing in promotion of his recent release Good Muzik, and has performed with artists that include Andy Mineo, Pettidee, and T-Ran Gilbert.
